

PocketOffice

Mobilize your in-store operations.

Everything works seamlessly together, hand in hand.

All PocketOffice applications share a common, easy-to-use graphical user interface. As a result, your staff will feel right at home from the beginning and future PocketOffice applications will look and feel familiar, further minimizing training.

And better yet, PocketOffice applications are designed for the power-packed iPad™, the lightest handheld computer in the grocery industry. At 10 ounces, the featherweight iPad combines devices used throughout the store – scanners, magnetic- and smart-card readers, keypads with encryption capabilities, even phones – into a convenient wireless retail appliance that can go anywhere and do virtually anything.

PocketOffice interfaces directly with ISS45 and ScanMaster, the grocery industry's premier POS systems. So imagine the benefits you'll receive when your employees get their hands on a tool that's so small it can hang on their belts, but so powerful it can drive up profits and drive down costs.

With StoreNext, everyday is independent's day.

StoreNext is the only IT company completely committed to serving independent grocers and smaller chains. StoreNext was created in 2002 as a joint venture by Fujitsu, a worldwide technology leader, and Retailix, one of the world's leading providers of integrated software solutions for the retail food industry.

Our focus on relentless cost reduction not only helps independents achieve greater ROI in the short-term, but also provides smaller chains with IT solutions that allow you to compete on a level with the largest retailers.
